Sacher, Barre '46 Co-Chairmen Of Step Singing

Evelyn G. Barre '46 and Ray Sacher '47, are co-chairmen for the Women's and Men's Colleges' annual step-singing competition which will take place this year Sunday evening, June 2, at 7:30 p.m., on the steps of Mead Chapel.

Unlike pre-war step-singing, the competition will not be between fraternities and sororities, but between classes, as in 1945 and 1946. The competition will be judged on the bases of: originality of composition, expertness and finesse of performance, and applicability to some phase of Middlebury life. It is stressed that a maximum of three songs is allowed and it will be held against the credit of the class if a reasonable proportion of the class is not represented. The order of procedure will be alternately by class with the senior women appearing last on the program. Frederick D. Williams '47, speaker of Men's Assembly, will be master of ceremonies.

"June in Middlebury"

The songs to be presented were composed by the following: freshman women, Joan E. Keller, director; "Souvenir," words and music by A. Lois Quirk; "June in Middlebury," words and music by Barbara J. Burris. Freshman men, F. William Kroeck and Eugene W. Robinson, directors; "Freshman Men Are We," music by Robert E. Seixas, words by F. William Kroeck and Eugene W. Robinson; "Freshman Thoughts," music by Robert Seixas, words by Roger Casavant; "Blue and White," words by H. Paul Barnes.

Those responsible for the sophomores are: sophomore women, Jeanette A. Winans, director; "As I Remember You,"

Marion L. Young Scholarship Given To B. L. Knapp '49

Barbara L. Knapp '49 was awarded the Marion L. Young scholarship Wednesday morning, May 29, in Chapel. Miss Knapp made the first team in volley ball, the second team in basketball, participated in the tennis tournament and is on the Dean's List.

The award, first established by the Alumnae Association of the Women's College of Middlebury in 1940, is given to a member of the freshman class who shows outstanding merits of general character, service and interest in athletics. After the death of Miss Young in an automobile accident near Burlington in 1938, the members of the association pledged themselves to raise a fund allowing an award to be made each year. Miss Knapp is the seventh recipient of this $100 scholarship fund.

The award stresses athletic interest because Miss Young, while at Middlebury, was head of the Physical education department from 1918 to her death in 1938, she was instructor of athletics and in 1922 was appointed to the position of assistant professor. Miss Young was also partly responsible for construction of the WAA cabin on the North Branch Road to Ripton which is called the Marion L. Young Cabin.

SCOTT CHAIRMAN OF CONFERENCE

The 1946 Conference committee has announced that it has chosen Charles A. Scott '47 as chairman for the 1947 Culture Conference.

The Policy committee will consist of Kenneth R. Beckwith '47, Alan Wolfley '47, Edith M. Gordon '47, Lois L. Southgate '47, Joan L. Biggs '48, and Helen A. Thwaites '47. A vice-chairman will be chosen in the fall to further increase the men's representation, and at the same time the general committee will be elected. This election will be done by class vote from slates of nominees chosen by the Policy committee from lists of persons interested.

Council Revises Rush Regulations For Coming Year

Members of the Interfraternity Council met Sunday, May 25, at the home of the Dean of Men, W. Storrs Lee, to discuss rules for fraternity rushing in the fall.

General accord was reached in the following revision of the Interfraternity pledging regulations.

Pre-entrance Information

1. A complete and pre-entrance system of education to all neutral men. This would be accomplished by distribution of an Interfraternity booklet, through the Dean's office, to show all new men the eight fraternities. It would include a comparison of financial and historical statements, with a brief explanation of the fundamental principles that each house stands for. Included would be a list of all active members of each house.

This would be mailed to all men prior to their entrance to Middlebury, along with an Interfraternity record card, which would be compiled and filed on return, to be made available to all fraternity men.

2. Included in freshman week: a short talk by a representative of the Interfraternity Council during Midd-Nite, then an introduction smoker will be held on the evening following Midd-Nite. This is designed to give both the neutral and fraternity men a chance to meet each other, to allow the new men to see the houses, and in general familarize them with fraternities as part of the education system begun earlier in the summer. Any questions that might have arisen from the booklet would be answered at this time.

Roy Kinsey Elected Undergrad President

Roy H. Kinsey '47 was elected Men's Undergrad President Tuesday night, May 28.

Mr. Kinsey's opinions about his new position are expressed in his statement to the CAMPUS.

"Aside from being a go-between the student body and the Administration, the undergrad president should also be one to instill and spur on the spirit of the student body. With the help of the older men, I would like to bring back traditions of Middlebury which have been neglected the past few years. For example, if the President should make a suggestion in Chapel, he should be able to expect a reaction because it should be taken for granted that the suggestion would not have been offered unless it was felt that there had been an obvious neglect.

"By no means should this position hold dictatorial powers; rather it should be the key to creating the initial spark of enthusiasm. Judgment of the president should be respected, not from a personal viewpoint, but from the standpoint of suggestion.

"Next year's program calls for a revision of Blue Key and its policies; a revision of inter-class activities, such as Frosh-Soph tug-o-war, the Junior steeplechase, and others—all of which deserve the enthusiasm of Middlebury men."

Reorganized "Black Panthers" Finish Year With Well-deserved Praise From Students

Foo Mathews

I have been asked to write a short article about the success of the Black Panthers during the winter and spring season soon to close. I find it especially difficult to write such an article, having been a member of the organization myself; I am afraid that I will not do the outfit justice. It does deserve all the credit that anyone could heap on it; because at the Senior Ball on June 14, and the Alumnae Dance on June 15, the band will play the last of what I consider the most triumphant series of jobs ever undertaken by any similar organization.

Credit for "Cece"

All the praise should be distributed among the players equally, but special mention should go to "Cece" Steen. It was his expert guidance and leadership ability and musical common-sense which was largely responsible for even the existence of a dance outfit at Midd. In a friendly way, he was a hard man to work for; because he was so eager to practice and devote time to the band that the rest of us found it hard to keep up. Never before at Middlebury has a band been faced with such terrific odds at its outset and come through so nobly in spite of all. For when one stops to consider that the band started with nothing, not even any music as a result of the Hamlin Hall halocaust, and with men who had not touched their instruments since their entrance into the armed forces; it is a miracle that anything could be done. This was the fine job that "Cece" did.

Irreplaceable Bud Moore

I would like to take a little space at this time to thank Bud Moore personally for the work that he put in on the band. At the beginning of this semester I took quite a dig at him in this paper, unintentionally, which he took very well. At a sacrifice to his wife, to Bud Jr., and to himself, he came to every rehearsal and played hard on every job and was personally responsible for a large part of the band's success. Without him the band would not have been possible this year. I hope somebody comes along who can partially fill his chair next season.

"Dollar-a-blister" Sholes

There is not room enough to thank every individual, and give him the praise that the whole college owes him. Some of the men had never played dance music before, and had to struggle to get the idea. Others had not touched a mouthpiece to their lips in three or four years, and suffered the usual sores as a result. If George Sholes had a dollar for every blister that grew on his hand, he would be a rich man! And so I could go on, right through the list. Every man made a considerable sacrifice for the betterment of the college, and every student is proud of the men who did this work.

Free Advertisement

Besides playing for many successful dances in Midd's gym, the band has played for the local high school, the Rutland High School, and other out of town jobs. We have been told confidentially that even our rivals in green, with their vast numerical superiority, have nothing which can beat the Panthers. We all firmly believe that a good dance band which hails from Middlebury is an excellent advertisement wherever it goes (not that the Director of Admissions will admit any need for advertisement in these crowded times). Anyhow, the band hopes that it has built up a little good will, and made a few dancers happy both here and at other places.

The members of the outfit want to thank the entire student body and the faculty for their enthusiasm at the dances, for the excellent attendance at the dances, and for the patience you have shown when the band's lack of experience has created a mix-up. You have really been a wonderful audience for which to play and I have been told by many that the dances have been more enjoyable than they have been for a long time.

Summer Split

It has been the wish of several of the Panthers that the group could get a job playing together for the summer, but no

VOL XLIII MAY 31, 1946 NO. 18

Once Again . . .

The old familiar cycle comes around again and the old familiar words are in order once more. Nothing new can be said to the graduating students that has not been said too many times before. Graduation is an old thing to everyone who is not graduating, and a most important event to those who are. Graduation from college is an especially great occasion, for it is the end of more than merely four years in one institution. It is the end of perhaps the best phase of a person's life.

After sixteen or more years of routine and scheduled studying, it is only natural that students who are finishing college look upon this culmination with a sense of relief. No longer will they be told what they have to think about and learn at any given time. But there is also a great responsibility that comes with their movement from the role of student to role of mature adult in an adult world. The sixteen or more years were designed for them with the primary purpose that they will have learned to think for themselves without specific direction, and will continue to do so, using the facts and perspectives that have been taught to them.

Even more natural a feeling that comes to those who have put a large part of themselves into their college life in all its phases is a deep sense of regret at being done forever with the college. No matter how frequently they return to visit, or perhaps to work, they will find that they are outsiders. Activities on which they have spent energies will be in the hands of new students who are equally as interested in them and who have been handed the right to work with them. While this reluctance requires some adjustment on the part of the graduates, its existence is the healthy sign that shows that the activities and interests were worthwhile. People do not become emotionally attached to objects that make demands on them unless those objects have a great value to them.

No one who is not graduating can measure the graduate's regret at leaving Middlebury. For those to whom the college means only a restricted life hampered by tradition, rules, and work, the regret is negative—it is pleasure. At the other end of the scale lie students to whom Middlebury and its traditions mean everything. There are as many different degrees in between these two ends as there are graduates. It is up to them to express, if only to themselves, just exactly where they should be placed on the scale.

The traditional commencement editorial expresses in traditional terms the traditional sentiments of the remainder of the student body as they see the senior class leave. Since it is impossible for every student in the college to know every senior equally well, it is in a sense ridiculous for them to express en masse a feeling that perhaps a few feel for a few seniors. When such a feeling is felt, it is more frequently an appreciation and understanding of the graduates regret at leaving Middlebury. The honest expression is the personal one, and certainly every student who feels that the graduation of one or all of the seniors will be a loss to their conception of Middlebury is obligated in a real way to make his feelings known.

We do not mean by all this that the seniors should not receive the thanks and appreciation from the students that is their due. The results of their work and interest are obvious, and as every student who comes to college brings something new to it, so every class that graduates leaves some new job finished, and finished well. As the student body changes with the graduation of one class, Middlebury college changes. We all have a natural hesitancy to accept the change and to give up conditions that we know were good. From this point we can sincerely say that we are sorry to see the senior class leave. There is an undeniable loss to the college as we know it now. We know that it will be better in the future as a result of what the seniors have done here.

M. MacCormick, Hornaday Named Senior Advisors

Elizabeth T. Hornaday '47 and Margaret MacCormick '47 have recently been appointed by Dean Woodward as senior counselors for a group of freshmen in Hepburn next year.

It has been decided that fourth floor Hepburn will be reserved for 30 freshmen. The three-room suites will all house three students. Miss Hornaday's and Miss MacCormick's position will be an advisory one for the group, interpreting the student rules for them. Mrs. Woodward feels that such a system will not only prove to be good experience for the counselors, but will also be helpful for the student group.

Suzy Reviews Latest Edition Of The Kaleid

Dear Liz:

I was simply sick about not being able to get up to Midd last week but some one (no names mentioned) upset the transportation system. I really did want to see Midd before you graduate so that I'd know what to expect next fall.

Unusual Gift

But wait until you hear what happened! When I opened the mail Monday morning (the first in almost a week) I found a copy of the Kaleid in it, addressed to me. I can't imagine why I got one but I shan't look this gift horse in the mouth.

It was such fun to see all those buildings you've talked about. Munroe, Chapel, the Libe, Pearsons, Forest, Gifford and all the others. By the looks of those candid shots I'd gather that you have plenty of good times—I guess I'll have to learn to play bridge. It's a shame the Navy's gone—they looked so nice, especially the June Week pictures. After seeing the pictures of the faculty I just know I'll want to take a course in every subject.

Activities

Now I know who all those people are that you've written so much about. But tell me—just what did you do to your hair the day your picture was taken? The activities section was so thick that I know I'll have plenty to keep me busy when I get there.

It seems that Midd has a team out for just about every sport. From the Campus clippings that you've sent home I gather that some of them have had a few wins this year. After looking at the Prom snapshots in the back I'm going to ask Mother for a new formal. As a matter of fact, the whole book was super—but best of all was the full page picture at the very end. Is that supposed to represent the ambitions, or inhibitions, of Midd women?

If you know Charlotte or Jean Davis are they sisters?) will you please tell them what a really fine job they've done.

Your eager Sis,

Suzy.

(Ed. Note: As for inhibitions—we refer Suzy to Bob Terrill).

NOTICES

Students desiring final grades sent them should leave self-addressed, stamped envelopes in the Registrar's office.

Dining rooms in the Women's dormitories will close at 7.10 instead of at 7.20 from June 3 through June 14.

Mrs. Gertrude B. Craig, Superintendent of Dormitories, will have as her assistant supervisor, Mrs. Aetha Smors of Swanton. Mrs. Smors will begin her duties the second week of June. She will live in 117 Gifford for the summer.

Mr. Rutherford J. Gettens, acting director of conservation of the Fogg Art Museum at Harvard University, spoke here last Friday for the Fine Arts class and the Alchemists club. Mr. Gettens graduated from Middlebury in 1923, and besides his work at Harvard, was on the staff of the atomic bomb research at Los Alamos, N. M.

All students in the college who are returning in September are required to report to the Registrar's Office between Wednesday, May 29 and the beginning of the exam period, June 6, to hand in the list of courses they expect to take during the first semester. This pre-registration is entirely tentative, and its purpose is to assist the administration in organizing staff and schedules. A list of courses expected to be offered will be available at the Registrar's Office. Faculty advisors may be consulted if the student needs advice about his program, but the advisor's signature will not be required at this time. It is emphasized that both the course list and the students' pre-registration are entirely tentative; all necessary changes may be made at the registration period in September.

Clarkson Beats Panther Golfers

Midd Linksmen Defeated By St. Lawrence At Canton

Alan Wolfley '47

Playing minus the services of the Boucher brothers and "Chipping Charlie" Scott, who are expected to be candidates for Phi Beta Kappa, the Middlebury linksmen lost two matches last weekend, one to Clarkson Tech, 5 to 1, and the other to St. Lawrence university, 4½ to 1½. With the aid of the above three players, the Panther golfers could easily have racked up two straight victories, for both of the opposing teams were comparatively weak.

Potsdam Victorious

On Friday afternoon, May 24, the Blue and White swingsters paired off against the Engineers from Potsdam, N. Y., on the latter's home course. Al Wolfley was playing number one, Rog Casavant was in the number two slot, with Ray Moore and Fred Storfer holding down three and four respectively. Midd could do no better than one point, as Storfer and Moore were both beaten 6 and 5, with their best ball losing by the same tally. Casavant was trounced 10 and 8 and gave Wolfley no help in the best-ball, as they were beaten on the seventeenth green, 2 and 1. Midd's single point was by virtue of Wolfley's sub-par 71, over the 6,300-yard, par 72 layout. He easily walked over Jack Daniels, playing number one for Clarkson, by an 8 and 6 count. Medal scores for the other three local players were well over 90.

St. Lawrence Match

Shifting their efforts to Canton, N. Y., the golfers teed off in a high wind against the same St. Lawrence university aggregation that Middlebury subdued at the Rutland Country Club, three weeks ago. Using the identical lineup that was defeated by Clarkson the day before, Wolfley played Bill Boice, who had defeated the local player on their previous meeting, Casavant was paired against "Ridge" Saunders, Moore, with "Bud" Williams and Storfer against "Stu" Harse.

The first foresome lost three points as Rog Casavant was trimmed 9 and 7, the best ball losing 5 and 4 and Boice defeating Wolfley on the eighteenth green, one up, as the St. Lawrence captain dropped a 40-footer for a birdie three.

Ray Moore chalked up one point for the home quartet, when he beat out Williams, 2 and 1. Pairing with Storfer, their best ball lost on the final green, one up, while Fred tied with his opponent, splitting the last point.

Medal scores for the 6,900-yard course found the number one men from St. Lawrence and Middlebury tying for medalist honors with 5 over par 79s and Saunder's second with an 81. Both the remaining St. Lawrence men and Middlebury's second, third and fourth players, were up in the nineties, as the combination of rain, wind and nervousness proved too much for them.

Midd Trackmen Beaten By Superior RPI Team

In a dual track meet featured at Troy, N. Y., Saturday, May 24, Middlebury was defeated by RPI 105½ to 19½. Although Midd scored a low number of points the fact should not be overlooked that Amherst could only rally 11 points, and Williams only 26 points against the RPI engineers. (They also beat Colgate—no pushover—by some 18 points.)

RPI was a team with depth; they had three good men ready to take part in each event. Bent and King, in the dashes, and Bray, in the distance, were the Engineers' outstanding runners.

Marty Wittlin scored the only first for Midd by throwing the shot 41'1½". The other Panther trackmen who placed in the meet were Gore (third in the 440), Kinsey (second in 120 high hurdles), Gilmore (third in the 220), Reed (second in the javelin throw), Parker (second in the high jump), Delaiti (second in the pole vault), Willits (tied for third in the pole vault).

BILLBOARD

Football camp begins September 9 and will extend through September 23, by by invitation only!

Last week's outstanding performance was the track team's showing against RPI. with a 14-man squad Coach Brown's cindermen turned in a creditable showing for themselves.

Midd's 19½ points stacks up well against the Amherst aggregation, which could do no better than 11 points, against the same team.

A close second comes the baseball team, who played practically flawless ball against the Horsemen from Norwich, twice conquerors of U. V. M.

Still plenty of chance for a share of the Vermont intercollegiate title.

Credit should be in order for "Pres" Carr and his fine work in conjunction with the Soph Hop, alias the Mardi Gras, a few weeks ago.

Golf is the least important of the minor sports. It takes not only the willingness of the athletic department and the athletic council, but the treasurer's office, as well. Last week-end the quartet that has been playing various schools was soundly trounced by Clarkson Tech and St. Lawrence University, in successive dual meets. Why? Because they were better than the golfers studying at Middlebury? No, not in the least, it was because three of the regulars on that same team decided to stay home and refused to go on the trip, hiding behind the screen of, "Gosh, I'm flunking out." Which, incidentally, is false, in the three cases of which I'm thinking.

Along about last winter, just at the start of the second semester, Coach Brown was convinced that a team representing Middlebury in golf could consistently place in the winning column. At least it was agreed, "they will be trying." Right then and there, the varsity men on the squad could have given the whole business the wind, if they realized that it would be impossible to make the trips.

The snow left and the hackers started swinging, they lost a heartbreaker to Williams, were beaten soundly by Dartmouth and stood well up on the list in the New England Intercollegiate Tournament. On the victory side, the golfers coasted over St. Lawrence and could easily have beaten the Larries again, as well as the Potsdam engineers, but instead the golf team had to pick up some men who, it seems haven't broken 90 this year, much less ever. This was done for only one reason, to fulfill a written contract that Middlebury had arranged. It's too bad that the men who should have represented the college were home "studying."

A lot of thanks to the three players who volunteered to go on the trip, at the last minute, at least they were trying.

Personally, I've always found, that if you want to study, athletic trips offer some of the best opportunities.

Tennis team came through with an easy victory over the St. Lawrence bunch. Just ask the boys what they think of the Clarkson team.

Then start running!

Question to the illustrious "other" column writer on this page: Please define what is meant by a "breeze through."(???)

Congrats to the Dew Club for winning the intramural softball title. You certainly upset the apple cart, but then that unbeatable "Slow Gin" was right in there.

About all for this year, see you soon.

Expanded Yachting Club Seeks Midd Sponsorship

David T. Stagg '49

It is possible that with the opening of the fall semester sailing facilities will be available to the students of Middlebury college. To the present 57 members of the Middlebury College Sailing club, Mr. E. Sheridan Chace of the Ecôle Champlain has generously offered not only the use of his six sailing boats, but also, as headquarters, the camp's beautiful location on Lake Champlain—just 16 miles from Middlebury!

In view of these facts, and because sufficient interest has been evidenced in the formation and establishment of a Middlebury College Sailing club, the members are presenting and recommending to the proper authorities plans for a permanent organization under college sponsorship.

Naturally, in the formation of such an organization, adequate facilities and sufficient funds for competitive regattas, both at home and away, must be available. It is impossible for the members to provide the amount of money required to participate in several such events without college aid. As there has been such interest this year (the members personally financed two crews to represent Middlebury in the Northeastern Intercollegiate Regattas at MIT), and as a location and boats are now available, the club hopes and believes that the college will be sufficiently interested to sponsor the organization.

Many colleges the size of Middlebury (i.e., Bowdoin, Rhode Island State, Amherst, Williams, Wesleyan) have sailing clubs now actively participating in regattas. Not only would a sailing club be beneficial to Middlebury in competition with these other schools, but after the establishment of rigid safety measures for protection, will provide sailing facilities and instruction for many students who have never before had opportunity to sail.

Hedden, Matulis Elected Officers For Flying Club

Daniel T. Hedden '48 and Margaret K. Matulis '48, were re-elected to serve as president and secretary-treasurer, respectively, of the Flying club for the next year.

Edward C. Welles '47 and Priscilla R. Noyes '49, were elected to serve on the governing board with the president, secretary-treasurer and faculty advisor, Prof. Benjamin F. Wissler.

Middlebury Flying club has been invited to participate in an air meet with 15 other colleges to be held at Yale June 1 and 2.

Robert Rowley '46 and Mr. Hedden have written a constitution which is pending approval by Student Life.

Slalom Trail To Be Widened by Industry Of Mt. Club Workers

Last Thursday afternoon, May 23, twenty-five women and four men went up to Breadloaf to help widen the old slalom trail. Their efforts were well worth the time spent, and their work was fully appreciated. But—if the students of Middlebury College want to enjoy the benefits of the proposed improved ski area next winter it is necessary that they get out and work up on Breadloaf now. This work involves cutting down brush and smaller trees, and clearing them away. For those who are not well-versed in the art of wielding an axe or brush hook there is ample opportunity for other kinds of jobs. It is hard to give up an afternoon of lying in the sun, but it will be even harder climbing those ski trails next winter.

Potential Panthers

The Yankees will miss Joe McCarthy, but no better man than Bill Dicky could be chosen to replace him. Sticking to baseball, I hope by using collective bargaining or something we can persuade our opponents who remain on the baseball schedule to allow Midd to merge the faculty and student baseball teams. That would mean Perley Perkins or Wieman pitching; Joe Ozanne (French graduate student and Dart. '41) or LaCroix at first; Frank Boutin (French graduate student and Dart. '41) or Chi-Chi at short; Sam Guarnaccia or Means on second; Bobo Sheehan or Barry on third; Ben Wissler or Liehr in right field; Al Aldrich or Price in center; Erie Volkert or Robertson in left field. Such a team would offer more laughs, perhaps a little more PEP, and we hope a few more victories.

Gifford Agenda

I passed through Gifford's hallowed halls last week and stopped in ten rooms to make a survey on current trends and dissertations. These talks went from the sublime to the coal mines. Any similarities will be intentional. Room 1—"Just read this Dun and Bradstreet sheet and you'll see why Lewis should be at Nuremberg instead of Goebbels. Those miners want everything and all they give us is coal." Room 2—(A soft recording of "Tea for Two" and three mellow Sophs singing.) "Just Gilda and me and soon there'll be. . . ." Room 3—"Yes, but you Doggies were in the land of culture and all we had was malaria and MacArthur." Room 4—"Granted she's human and understanding, but don't be hasty. She's not even draft age." Room 5—"That guy with the record collection of jazz, he can always get you a bottle." Room 6—"Those tariffs give us protection even though they might cost a few extra dollars. Keep it in the family or Uncle Joe will take over." Room 7—"What a team! If I couldn't play ball better than Johnny Doe, I wouldn't go out for the team." (He never did go out, either.) Room 8—"If I marry her my allotment goes up to $90. That extra 25 bucks should pay our rent and her food bill, if they keep OPA." Room 9—"Pre-A'S, hell! What we need is more learning." Room 10—"Call her on the phone. If she says 'yes,' you're in. If she says 'no,' call her roommate."

DU'S Champs

The Du's clinched the intramural softball championship last week by defeating the Theta Chi's. Two upsets gave them the undisputed crown. The Deke's breezed through over the Chipsi's and the Alpha Sig's knocked over the Sig Ep's. The final standing of the league cannot be de-

Netmen Win One, Lose One Match On Weekend Trip

Middlebury's tennis team broke even on the week-end trip to New York, losing to Clarkson 6-3 on Friday, May 24, and trimming St. Lawrence 6-2 on Saturday.

At Clarkson Seab Short, Add Merrick, and Bob Goell held out for the Panther's three points. Number one man, Al Rice, lost to Heberling. The opening set went to Heberling 6-3, but Al gave Clarkson's captain a hard-fought-for triumph in the second, 8-6. Although Seab Short let his first set go to Cook 6-3, he forged ahead to win the next 6-4. In the decider Seab held his opponent in place with a 6-3 victory. The third court saw Add Merrick win his first 6-4, then lose his second 4-6. Add then clinched his match with Davis in another win 6-4.

The Mole Burrows

Mole Turnbull, in number four spot, lost the opener 6-1, and repeated in the second, bowing to Holmwood. Gordy Mathews made a determined stand in his second set, after losing the first to Woodruff 6-4, but failed to connect at 6-8. Bob Goell fought out his first with Elliot 9-7, and then sealed victory with a 6-2 set.

Midd Clouts Norwich 9-4 Sat., May 25

Batting Spree Led By Price's Homer

Charles H. Pope '48

Last Saturday Coach Red Kelly's Panther nine defeated the Norwich Horsemen by the gratifying score of 9 to 4 on the Equestrian's home field.

Usual Playing

In the first inning, the Blue and White nine appeared about the same as usual both at bat and in the field. The first error was scored when a hard hit grounder ricocheted off one of the infield's many major mole mounds, and disorganized third baseman, Jack Barry, putting Liebold on base. He was then sacrificed to second and finally driven home on Melendy's single, accounting for the first score of the game. The second and third innings were without any excitement, Don Means making the majority of stops for the putouts.

The fourth inning was a lot better and started off when Price singled and was picked off first by Pitcher Mianza. Means was then walked and was driven to second by Tom Cruess' single. George Wieman chased them home with a well timed triple. Chichi Barquin got a free ticket to first, courtesy of Pitcher Mianza, when the Military's second pitcher, Voight, came in the game and Barry singled Wieman home for number three. Barry and Chichi took second and third respectively on the throw to home. Gid LaCroix was then purposely walked to fill the bases. Paul Liehr flied out to the short stop. Jack Valentine then doubled to clear the bases and was caught at third trying to stretch the play, but the last three runs had already crossed the plate for a grand total of six runs in the first half of the fourth.

Two Doubles

But the inning was far from over as Chapin of Norwich doubled and Powell drove another double bringing Chapin home for the Cadets' second of the game. Jones drove Powell in on a single with two out and Wieman struck the next man out, retiring the side.

The next vital inning was the seventh when Valentine singled and took second on a wild throw. He was then brought to third by another overthrow and took home on the next bad peg.

Eighth Score

In the eighth Tom Cruess made first on an error by the short stop, Wieman sacrificed him to second and Chichi singled him home for the eighth talley by the Middmen.

Price Homers

In the first half of the ninth Dick Price got out his big gun and blasted a hard hit four bagger for the last of Midd's nine runs. In the second half Wieman allowed them his first walk of the day putting Chapin on first, Powell came up then and flied to Liehr who made the second and last error of the game allowing Chapin possession of second. Jones hit then sent Chapin home for the fourth and final tally. Voight struck out for the

Sophomores to Give $100 to UNRRA Fund

The sophomore class voted to give $100 to the UNRRA at a class meeting held last Friday afternoon. Part of this sum will be taken from the proceeds of the sophomore dance, and the remainder will come from the class treasury.

Other business of the meeting included an announcement by M. Sue Cooke, chairman of the Big and Little Sister Committee, that little sisters would be assigned by lots in the event that more than seventy women signed up for them. Lilah Horne asked for suggestions for the revision of the pre-entrance handbook, A Word to the Whys, which is sent to incoming freshman women.

Russian Major To Be Initiated in Fall Term

An announcement was made by the Administration on Tuesday, May 28, that a major in Russian is to be initiated into the Middlebury curriculum in the fall of 1946.

Sheldon Museum Vividly Displays History of Town

Muriel E. Mack '47

Harry L. Sheldon was an odd man, today we'd call him a "wierdy," but he left to the world an irreplaceable piece of early American life—the Sheldon Museum. For the last 22 years of his life, he lived in the old house, deaf and undisturbed, free to work on the vast pile of history which he had gathered about himself.

Mute Witnesses

The three stories of the house are packed from front to back with mute witnesses of days gone by; there to remind us of our forefathers, who early came to this backwoods community to pass their lives before God as they saw fit. The house contains 6,000 old books, a great many of them Bibles, the foundation of their living. 1497 is the date in the Latin Commentary of the Old Testament printed by Nicholas Koburger in Nurenburg. Another commentary has notations in all the margins showing that it was read by some monk about 1636. In addition to volume upon volume of books, the Sheldon Museum has every copy of the Middlebury Register from its establishment in the year 1801.

Aaron Petty and Ebenezer Weeks, the early Prexys Larrabee and "Kitchell tall," seem merely names out of a song to us, but when you can read their diaries, handle a tuning box made by one, or see the name of A. Petty on the dance program of the Commencement Ball—1802, they assume the proportions of live men and great men. Materialistic as we are today we need such things to bring our minds to focus on the year 1810.

The Gayer Side

The room of the college man of that time didn't offer much in the way of comfort—a rope sprung bed, a high "Uriah Heepy" desk and stool, a wooden chest for odds and ends and two or three shelves filled with wordy books on rhetoric and like subjects. But life was not completely without the gayer side, for on the mantle of the roomy fireplace lies a pewter flip cup and stick, with a potent recipe within easy reach. And on the wall is framed an order from President Atwater allowing the treasurer to pay out $14.00 for liquor served at the Commencement Dinner. This complete room can be seen at the Sheldon Museum—recipe and all.

Famed Stone Indian Boy

Myriad phases of Middlebury life which we as students never bother to learn can be found here; the key to the bank which was robbed, silk woven from Middlebury's own silk worms, the first glass mechanism used for the "administration of the vapors of Sulphuric Ether" (1851), the famed Stone Indian Boy petrified in the ancient days of primeval America, and the table used by Washington and Painter when the latter was believed to be a spy during the Revolutionary War.

Replica of General Store

Wherever your interests lie, something historical pertaining to it can be found in this house: Books by the thousands, over 500 rifles and dueling pistols, many examples of primitive American art, the

CLUB '47 TO STAR 'BARBARY COAST' DARTMOUTH BAND

The Atomic Room of Club '47, featuring Dartmouth's Barbary Coast Band, will be opened by the junior class on Saturday, June 1, from 8:00-12:00 p.m., in the high school gym.

For entertainment a floor show will be presented with Walter T. Savage '49 as master of ceremonies. The Nagasaki Nine composed of Joanne E. Buckeridge, Edith M. Gordon, Virginia M. Hodder, Annaliese M. Koster, Carolyn W. Leach, Alice H. Neef, Lois E. Southgate, and Doris E. Vaughn, with Robert E. Seixas '49 at the piano, will offer a dance routine. Natalie J. Simpson will be starred behind the "mike," and a trio of Marion F. Bodine, Ellen Chalmers, and Elizabeth A. Holmgren will be featured.

Kathleen K. Brittain is chairman of the formal, and committee heads include: publicity, Miss Buckeridge and Miss Holmgren; decorations, Alice L. Ashley; programs, Miss Hodder; entertainment, Elizabeth Galloway; band, Cecil H. Steen '48; refreshments, Phyllis M. Burke; and chaperones, James W. Ham.

Chaperones include Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Chalmers, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Guarnaccia, and Mr. and Mrs. Evans B. Reid.

Formal attire is required for women and optional for men.

deals have been forthcoming for so large an organization. If the men could stick together throughout the summer, they would form an unbeatable combination for dancing and listening next fall. If we can replace "Raybee" Walch and Bud Moore who graduate, I predict an even better season next year, nevertheless.

And so the Black Panthers will soon pack up their new stands, fold up their music, burn "Hey-ba-ba-re-bop," and go their separate ways for the summer. It was hard work to get going in such a short time, but it was fun. The job could not have been done without the enthusiastic cooperation of every audience, a prime cause in the success of any musical organization.

Dance Club Chooses B. Myers President

Barbara T. Myers '49, Shirley R. March '48, and Mary Ann Stevens '47 have been elected as president, vice-president, and secretary-treasurer respectively of the Modern Dance club.

The election of the officers was executed through a series of informal ballots. At a meeting held Friday, May 17, in Pearsons Rec, the group formulated their future plans. An Easter and a Christmas program were decided upon and meetings were scheduled for Tuesday evenings from 7.00-9.30 p.m. Periods for warm-ups and production practice will be featured at the meetings.

ASP Wins Relay

The Alpha Slugs finished their "clean-up" job in the 880-yard relays by edging the DKE's in the final with the Chi Psi's third. The same team of the Parker brothers, Gilmore, and Vyrros again carried the torch for the winners.

Odd Bits

The Atomic Room is about to explode. The juniors have been doing a bang-up job, and the dance should be as successful as the Soph Hop. The Indians from Hanover will provide the syncopation. The baseball team's win over Norwich shows we can play ball without making ten errors. That was good ball and that is winning ball. The rumor is strong that Duke will be back on the hockey rink next winter. To the class of '46 "Bonne Chance."

MAY 24 CONTEST ENDS WITH MIDD RACKETMEN 1 UP

Doubles Defeat

Midd was stopped completely in the doubles, but did not fall easily to their hosts at Potsdam. With Rice and Short the first set was won at a cost of 8-6, but Al and Seab were outplayed later 6-2 and 6-4 giving Heberling and Davis a win. Add and Mole clicked on their first 8-6, gave Cook and Holmwood a hard time in their second 5-7, but lost the final 4-6. Gordy and Bob came close at first 4-6 against McKelby and Woodruff, but ceded another game to Clarkson in the last, 6-3.

At St. Lawrence

The Panther, hardened by Friday's battle, fought off the Cantonians on Saturday, taking all but one set of doubles and one singles. Bob and Gordy, playing number three doubles, won their first set from Fronau and Weise 6-1. The second passed to St. Lawrence 7-5 as did the final 6-4. Add and Mole, cooperating well on the second court, flayed Parker and Wood 6-3, 6-1. Rice and Short were rained out of their doubles with Holzkamp and Ingalls, the weatherman extending courtesies to the hometown team. Mathews fought off Wiese until he was finally subdued 6-8. Their next set was also a Panther defeat, 3-6. Bob Goell began his singles match by shutting out Wood in the first, ceding his second 4-6, but rallying in the decider 7-5.

Three More Wins

Seab Short started his private contest by holding Ingalls 6-1. After 20 games in the second (the longest set of both matches) Seab had gleaned only nine, but regained his stride to conquer 7-5 in the third. Al Rice let his first set with Holzkamp get away 5-7, but turned the tables for two victories 6-0 and 6-4. The Mole, rested up from his Friday's defeat, allowed Fronau only one set 1-6, but fought for his next, 9-7, and polished up the last 6-3. Consistent Add Merrick played Parker firmly in their second and third, 6-1, 6-4, after letting his first set get away 5-7.

In the Alley

The Blue and White netmen are confident of a victory over Clarkson here, June 1, judging by the close scores last Friday. But before that they take on U.V.M. at Burlington, May 30.

D. Gilmore Elected President of SAA

Donald Y. Gilmore '47 was elected president of SAA at a meeting held Friday, May 17, in Munroe. Other officers named for the coming year are: Vice-president, Joan L. Biggs '48; secretary-treasurer, Helen J. Hutchinson '49.

Committee heads elected at the meeting include: Discussion, Larzer Ziff '49; Contacts, Ruth C. Murphy '48; Polls, Jean N. Rapaport '48; Radio, Barbara J. Burris '49; and Agenda, Jean A. Habison '48.

"Inflation" was the topic under discussion at the final SAA meeting of the year which was held Wednesday, May 22, in Munroe. Virginia M. Knudsen '48 was moderator and speakers included Charles A. Scott '47, Alan Wolfley '47, and Kenneth T. Moore '48.

CLUB NOTES

There will be a meeting of El Circulo Español at 4:30 on Friday, May 31, at the Spanish House to elect officers for the coming year. The slate of candidates is: president, Nancy Surtees, Jean Mace; vice-president, Virginia Cuiffreda, Camille Busby; secretary-treasurer, Elizabeth MacGill, Margery Williams; program chairman, Marian Atkins, Elizabeth Galloway.

El Circulo Español has decided to cancel their plans for the picnic at Breadloaf in view of the present campaign for food conservation.

KNAPP APPROVES PRESENT AIRPORT

Mr. Edward F. Knapp, Vermont aeronautics commissioner from Montpelier, accompanied by a federal airport engineer, approved the airport in East Middlebury last week.

Two planes are now available for use, and one more plane will be added this summer. These may be used for instruction, rental, or charter purposes. The airport also sponsors sales service for Piper Cub and Luscombe Aircraft.

Library Personnel Plans Book Exhibit As Travelers' Aid

A travel exhibit, designed to aid potential travelers in choosing their destinations and ports of call during the summer months, will be featured in the main reading room of the library beginning either today or tomorrow.

Emphasis will be placed on those places which can be reached today, with the aid of many Federal Writer's Project books describing places in and about North America.

Smoking Jeopardizes Library

Traces of smoking are still being found in the stacks. Mrs. Fayer reminds us that this practice jeopardizes the books as the library is not fireproof. In the Fine Arts room, smoking is also not permitted due to the subsequent danger rendered the nearby ballad collection.

Two Exhibits Featured

During the past two weeks there have been two exhibits of current interest in the main reading room. One, concerning aviation today, includes literature for the air-minded which the library staff has selected from the pamphlet files.

The second exhibit, following the theme of Brotherhood Week, contains books by men of the past and present in the groupings: "Some who have lived and died for freedom," "Brothers and sisters," and "Scandals and points of pride."

White Fish Menace Books

Plans for the summer months include fumigation, serving the summer school, and a September vacation. The fumigation, necessitated by the growing prevalence of white fish in the books, will be done under Dr. Voter's direction between this term and the opening of the summer school. These small animals resemble book worms except for the fact that they consume more area per page than their cohorts.

INTERFAITH HEARS VETERANS ARGUE SOLDIER RELIGION

Dr. Stephen A. Freeman was moderator at the last meeting of Interfaith held Sunday in Forest East. Robert B. Rowley '46, Milton Pike '47, Ray Sacher '47, Richard S. Haseltine '49, and Lesley Van Dine '49 spoke on religion in army life and religion's effect on the soldier.

The points discussed were whether one's religion was strengthened or weakened in service, whether it was changed, whether one was strengthened or weakened by religion, whether there was religious prejudice, and what part the chaplains played. These speakers agreed that organized worship was slight and the individual, unorganized religion was almost universal. Those listening heard the beliefs and personal experiences of these veterans, and had Doctor Freeman to guide the discussion and put questions to the speakers.

In the course of the meeting, the discussion turned to the question of improving chapel. Everyone felt the service should be altered in some way, but few improvements were suggested that met with unanimous approval. It was agreed that there should be rules governing applause in chapel, and some thought it should be eliminated entirely. Also suggested was that passages from the Bible be read and explained. Doctor Freeman said that the administration would be eager to have ideas that would make chapel services more interesting and valuable to the students.

Interfaith intends to hold more discussions of general interest when it organizes next fall.

Council Decides Revision of Rules For Coming Year

Control Period

3. The period from Freshman Week until Thanksgiving will be a control-period, whereby no discussion of fraternities will be held after 8:00 P.M., nor will fraternities be mentioned unless the discussion is instigated by the neutral man.

4. The Interfraternity Council will draw up a list of all neutral men and from this list assign a definite number of men to each house, each week, from September 30 to November 21. The fraternities will invite these men for an exchange dinner any evening from Monday to Friday of that week. At the end of the eight weeks all men will have visited each house once.

5. On the evening of November 21 the neutral men wishing to join a fraternity will submit a list of the houses they are considering in preferential order. This list is then referred to the fraternities according to the 1st, 2nd, and 3rd choices of the men. From this list each fraternity will compile a list of men to be invited to a non-compulsory smoker, at which time informal pledging will take place. There will be three periods of one-half hour each to allow a man that has more than one invitation a chance to accept all.

Formal Pledging

6. Formal pledging will occur the morning after the smokers, the period between the last smoker and the signing of the pledge to be a strict silence period on the part of fraternity men. The pledge cards will be distributed by Interfraternity messenger between 7:00 and 8:00 A.M., after which time the individual fraternities may approach any man for his signed pledge.

7. All neutral men not being pledged will be allowed to accept a pledge at any time after the second semester begins. All men that break their formal pledge, will not be eligible to pledge another fraternity until the following fall semester.

At the same meeting the stewards from each fraternity agreed to work out a co-operative plan for purchasing food; which is in progress at this time.

Norwich Horsemen Downed by Superior Blue and White Nine

first; Liebold sent a long fly out to be snagged by Liehr and Jones on first expected him to miss, but on a beautiful throw-in by Paul he was caught off the bag for out number three and the game.

From past performance it would seem that the team plays a lot better away than they do on the home field. But then a riding is a slight matter when it comes from the opponent's bleachers. It doesn't do much good to go on the field when your own fans expect you to lose and act accordingly as has been policy at the Panther's home field in the past.

This amount includes the $197.50 saved on Famine Sunday, a $100.00 contribution from the Sophomore class, and a $50.00 contribution from Student Union. The contribution to be made by the Men's Assembly was voted upon Wednesday night. The collection of dormitory contributions has not been completed as yet.

The committee has urged all those who have not signed the petition asking for rationing and a system of set-asides to do so as soon as possible. When all the signatures have been collected, the petition will be sent to President Truman.

Sheldon Museum

1814 flag of unknown origin with 13 stars and four broad stripes, early dental instruments, quaint dresses and bonnets, handmade musical instruments (1810), a collection of stone Indian implements and a complete replica of Mr. Sheldon's store containing the Post Office, the drug department, a slanting counter to accommodate the hoop skirts of the day, and the checker game on the upturned barrel.

The work of a hundred lives can be seen as you visit the museum. Since it will officially open June 1, and remain open every week-day from 10.00 a.m. to 5.30 p.m., every student should have a chance to see the house from top to bottom. We carry the name of Middlebury students, but how many of us know what lies behind the name Middlebury.

Chem Teachers To Confer Here

Middlebury will be host to the eighth summer conference of the New England Association of Chemistry Teachers to be held August 19 to 24, with Prof. Conant Voter as college representative on the committee in charge of arrangements.

The summer conference has become an important event among science instructors of both college and secondary schools in the eastern United States, for through it the results of research and theoretical developments are incorporated directly into teaching.

Two symposia of three papers will be featured at the conference. A symposium on Electrolysis will be conducted by Dr. William B. Meldrum of Haverford college, Prof. Frank T. Gucker of Northwestern university, and Dr. John A. Timm of Simmons college. A symposium on Colloids will be conducted by Dr. Ernst A. Hauser of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, assisted by other authorities. After each symposium a discussion is scheduled.

Other speakers who will appear before the conference are to discuss the following topics: Dr. Avery Ashdown, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, "Importance of Chemical Education"; Sidney H. Roberts, Aetna Life Insurance Co., "Chemistry in Life Insurance"; Dr. Ben Corson, Mellon Institute, "Catalysis in Petroleum Industry"; Dr. Joseph Libsch, Lehigh university, "New Alloys in Steel"; Prof. P. Conant Voter, Middlebury College, "Tracer Elements"; Dr. Francis J. Norton, General Electric Co., "Silcones"; Dr. Andrew J. Scarlett, Dartmouth college, "G. I. Chemistry at G. I. University"; Dr. C.
